

Camas Public School #58

Reading, 'Riting' and 'Rithmetic

Here is where Camas kids learned their 3 R's for many, many years. The first school building was built in 1886 where the junior high school now stands, and was in use until 1935. This picture taken during LaCamas' "Gay Ninties," shows that kids haven't changed too much in sixty years. Note the broken 'windows in the school. In these days students ranged in age from five to 21-year-old.
